Lakeshore man injured by trailer fire remains in serious condition

BY DENA BISNETTE

A 44-year-old partially crippled, mentally retarded man remained in serious but guarded condition in the West Jefferson General Hospital burn unit in Marrero, La., Wednesday after suffering injuries in a Saturday afternoon fire at his Lakeshore residence.

Joel Fox suffered second and third degree burns over 45 percent of his body, according to hospital spokesman James Pittman.

His mother, Ann Hitchcock, said doctors told her he suffered the worst burns on his feet and chest.

The woman believes her son might have died if a man who was visiting relatives nearby had not spotted the fire and carried Fox to safety.

According to Hancock County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh, the fire appears to have started accidentally in a shed that extended at a right angle from a mobile home used as a utility room.

The mobile home used as the family's primary residence stood parallel to the shed and met with the utility trailer on one end.

The utility trailer and the shed were totally destroyed. The residence trailer survived, but paint was blistered off the front wall and door by the heat. A wooden front porch was destroyed.

Fox was alone in the house with his dog when the fire broke out about 4 p.m. Saturday, she said. Hitchcock and her husband, Ken Hitchcock, had driven to Bay St. Louis earlier that day.

His mother said she had left Fox asleep in front of a television set.

Hitchcock said her son was apparently burned while trying to protect his dog, which suffered singed fur but escaped the blaze without any apparent injuries. She said Fox apparently tried to use a garden hose attached to a water tap beside the shed to put out the fire.

"He loves that little dog, and he wouldn't put it down," she said. "I know that's what he was doing, trying to protect his dog."

She said her son probably stayed near the fire rather than fleeing because he became frightened in the manner that a child would.

"I guess he was sort of in a trance, shock, you know. He just got scared and kind of stood there until the man came and got him," she said.

The man who rescued him was Leo Kosbab, who spotted the fire from his daughter's home, also on Lakeshore Road but nearer to Gulfview Elementary School than the Hitchcock home.

Marsh said Kosbab told his daughter to summon the fire department, then drove to the Hitchcock residence, found Fox and carried him to safety away from the burning structures.

Marsh said Kosbab told him that he picked the man up from the back because he could see the burns on the front of Fox's body.

In addition to calling Kosbab's assistance "a miracle," Hitchcock also praised the Bay-Side Park and Clermont Harbor Volunteer Fire Departments for saving her residence.

She said she and her husband arrived after the first two firetrucks. According to Hitchcock, the blaze was so fierce that firefighters ran out of water one time.

"I think they did a marvelous job, no bigger departments than they are," she said.

Hitchcock said she lost some items that had belonged to her mother and were stored in the utility trailer, along with her freezer, washer and dryer.

"I'd gladly give those to save my son," she said.

Right now, Hitchcock said her most urgent need is rides into New Orleans to visit Fox. She uses a walker and can not drive long distances, and her husband can not leave his barber shop in Bay St. Louis.

Anyone who wishes to assist her may call 467-3497.

FIRE SITE—A Lakeshore Road mobile home stands with paint blistered by heat and a front porch burned off, right, next to debris from a second trailer and a shed destroyed by the flames. One of the occupants of the trailer, Joel Fox, remained in serious but guarded condition Wednesday in the burn unit at West Jefferson General Hospital in Marrero, La. Hancock County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh said the Saturday afternoon blaze was accidental and started in the corner of the shed nearest the destroyed trailer. He has not determined the cause. Rouse's bridge goes

Tries to take truck with it

BY D. C. HARVILL

A dump truck was nearly swallowed by a hole which opened in Rouse's Bridge on Menge Avenue crossing Wolf River north of Pass Christian.

The truck, hauling dirt for construction of a new bridge, was crossing Rouse's Saturday when part of the bridge fell away behind it. No one was hurt.

Jimmy Turan, an inspector for A. Garner Russell and Associates, the firm engineering the new bridge at that site, said he heard a loud crashing sound and turned to see the driver jump from the truck and run back to stop traffic.

"It is fortunate no one was following closely behind the truck," Turan added, "there's no way they could have avoided that hole."

Badly charred timbers indicate the bridge, which was scheduled to be closed on Monday for construction of the new bridge, had burned some time in the past.

According to Turan, it could be between one and two years before the new bridge is completed.

In the meantime traffic along Menge, a major access road to I-10, will have to make a five and a half mile detour along Freddie Frank Road to Red Creek Road and back to Menge along Bell's Ferry Road.

A BRIDGE NO MORE—Jimmy Turan, of Gulport, peers into the hole in Rouse's Bridge on Menge Avenue that nearly swallowed a dump truck Saturday. The bridge was in a weakened state from having been burned. Traffic will be detoured for over a year while a new bridge is constructed. (Echo staff photo by D. C. Harvill)

Streets to close

BY EDGAR PEREZ

Track maintenance crews from CSX Lines will begin upgrading rails through Bay St. Louis Monday causing a disruption in normal motor vehicle traffic flow.

Mayor Victor Franckiewicz said South Second, Toulme and Agnes streets will be closed at the tracks Monday, and as work progresses during the week, the Booker and Ballentine streets crossings will be closed.

CSX will be improving grade, replacing ties and installing a high-strength steel rail on the high side of the curve through that area of the city, the mayor noted.

Bad vibrations

Partition bricks fall in jail, vibration from train blamed

BY DENA BISNETTE

No one was injured Tuesday night when two rows of cinder blocks fell off a partition wall in a Hancock County Jail cell, but the incident has caused some concern over possible dangers from trains passing behind the jail building.

Jail Warden Jim Odom said he does not know what originally loosened the blocks on the six-foot-long partition, but he feels the vibration from a passing train caused them to fall on an inmate.

He said the jail inmate was not injured.

Odom said he is "95 percent sure" the remaining mortar holding the blocks was broken loose by the vibration from the trains, which recently began traveling through Bay St. Louis at 45 m.p.h. rather than 35 m.p.h.

The speed limit changed under a settlement in a federal lawsuit filed last year by Chesapeake-Seaboard Rail Transportation, Inc., also known as OSX, against several Gulf Coast municipalities including Waveland. Bay St. Louis was not included because the city had repealed its local speed limit ordinance.

"The whole building shakes when a train comes by," the warden said.

Problems like the loose blocks do not concern him as much as the possibility of a hazardous chemical accident, Odom added.

The tracks run right behind the building, and the warden is concerned that the jail could not be evacuated before vapors from a hazardous chemical got inside.

"If we had a derailment like this one they had in Orange Grove, we'd be in a lot of trouble," he said, referring to an accident on tracks north of Gulfport last week.

He is also concerned that a derailed car might actually hit the building.

"Roads" features opera, music and architecture

The season finale of Mississippi Roads features a living legend of contemporary music, an old-fashioned theater pipe organ and a visual montage detailing architecture of the past on Tuesday, May 17, at 7:30 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

In the first segment, viewers are given a rare glimpse of genius when Roads cameras follow composer Gian Carlo Menotti as he directs the Mississippi Opera in a Feb. 13, 1986, performance of his work The Consul. Viewers follow Menotti from his introduction at a news conference by Mississippi's First Lady Julie Mabius to the opera's final curtain.

Along the way, the composer is seen buying fruit at a small market, rehearsing the cast and testing his first fried Mississippi catfish.

Franklin Choset, general manager of the Mississippi Opera, relates the value of working with this renowned composer. Dwight Coleman, cast as Assan in The Consul, is the instructor of voice and director of opera at the University of Mississippi. Coleman relates the impact of performing under the direction of Menotti on his teaching style. William Fulton, fine arts producer, Public Radio in Mississippi, discusses Menotti's career, style and his work The Consul.

Finally, viewers meet Luigi Zaninelli, composer in residence at the University of Southern Mississippi, who refers to Menotti as his "musical father," and recalls his years as Menotti's student.

Hattiesburg's Saenger Center is featured in the next segment of Roads. Viewers visit the old theater, built in 1931, to hear a pipe organ played by organist David Duke. Duke gives a brief history of the organ and explains how it was built, including the drums, cymbals and tamborines which are incorporated into the instrument.

Duke performs Indian Love Song, My Blue Heaven, and Five Foot Two as viewers get a look at the renovated decor of the landmark theater.

The final segment of Mississippi Roads is a video essay narrated by series producer Kent Bowlds which presents his reflections on The Past Around Us.

AUSTRIAN RESISTANCE

It was a memoir that became a Hollywood film. American author Lillian Hellman wrote a "true" story about a heroine of the Austrian resistance—Julia. A new ETV special at 10 p.m., Friday, May 13, advocates that Hellman's Julia was based on the life of Muriel Gardiner.

By Katy McGuire Caire

In the days of the Gold Rush in California, lemons were so prized that they at times seemed almost as precious as the gold itself—and many a forty-niner, so we are told, paid a dollar for just one lemon!

Lemons aren't cheap today, but they're still worth their weight in gold in the tang and taste they give to so many dishes. I really don't think that I could cook happily without lemons, fresh lemons, that is. At least I wouldn't like to!

I always add a few squeezes, (say, a teaspoon or less) to rice as it cooks, to give it that white, fluffy texture. The same amount of lemon juice helps keep cauliflower or cabbage or potatoes from discoloring.

I usually put a slice or so of lemon atop chicken or fish or broccoli or green beans and such while cooking—for one thing, in addition to giving the tart flavor of the lemon, you can cut down on the salt, which so many of us are doing these days.

Lemon butter is one of the tastiest toppings for vegetables such as broccoli, spinach and green beans—just add a generous tablespoon of lemon juice, along with a teaspoon of chopped chives or green onions, to a fourth of a cup of melted butter—or do it the easy way, as I do, just spoon the butter over the vegetables just as they finish steaming with the lemon juice and onions or chives.

Lemons and their juice are also excellent tenderizers of meat and such—add them to your marinades for flavor.

Among many delectable sauces, is that of the Greek cooks, Avgolemono (Egg and Lemon Sauce) for many of their marvelous dishes, from cubes of lamb to chunks of celery.

So, when I was faced the other day with an unusually tough stalk of celery (how could I have picked that one out?), I asked myself—and was all souped out as I had made beef stock and chicken soup the day before). I started thinking of ways to make it edible.

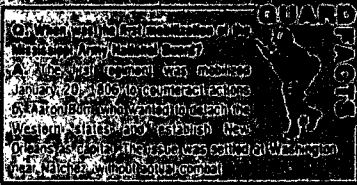

Just at that time, Connie Burril called me, telling me that she also had a tough stalk of celery on hand, and was about to make celery potato soup with it. So, I followed suit, and the soup was quite good.

As I gave the recipe for vichyssoise (cold potato soup with green onions) this past week, I won't repeat it, but just advise you to add that tough celery to it, and have celery vichyssoise, or, if you prefer, hot potato and celery soup.

Then, I cooked up that Greek delight.

SELINA AVGOLEMONO (Celery with Egg-Lemon Sauce)

- 1 stalk (bunch) celery (one piece is a rib)
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- Pepper to taste, just a dash
- 2 cups chicken stock (or use

Saturday is Hancock County's big cleanup day and we are hoping there will be a large participation.

The cleanup is a tri-county event sponsored by the Bureau of Marine Resources, the Gulf Islands National Seashore, the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, and the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, and area chamber of commerces.

Local sponsors are the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and Home Extension Service.

We will have four places to register on Saturday morning beginning at 8:30 a.m., and they are:

—Bay St. Louis-Ulman Avenue and Beach Boulevard.

—Waveland-American Legion home, Coleman Avenue.

—Clermont-Lakeshore, Methodist Church, Clermont Harbor.

—Pearlington-Community Center, Highway 604.

As the chamber's beautification chairman, I have been named by the board as chairman for the cleanup. I am very happy with the support I have already received from so many people in planning for Saturday's cleanup.

The committee has been busy making preparations, and all we now need is for a lot of citizens to come out and give us a hand on Saturday.

I can remember the number of people who helped on Our Clean Our Beach Day two years ago and we are hoping they will again join us, as well as many more. We hope to see you Saturday.

IN CONGRESS By Cong. Trent Lott

OPEN-SHUT CASE
Back in 1986, Congress decided to toughen its stance on illegal aliens. This was a wise move.

Under The Immigration Reform and Control Act, we strengthened penalties against those people living and working illegally in the United States. But to get these tougher sanctions, we, the Conservatives in Congress, had to compromise. We agreed to create an amnesty period in which those illegal immigrants who entered the United States before 1982 could apply for a reprieve; a ticket to stay here. All those who applied and qualified, more than 1.5 million by the time this column was written, are being allowed to stay. No questions asked.

There are some who favor extending this grace period, but I am not one of them. I believe that 12 months is long enough and that the program has been sufficiently publicized. And for that, I applaud the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

I oppose the proposed extension on philosophical grounds because I do not feel that government deadlines should be changed to accommodate procrastination. Do we postpone elections if only half the electorate turns out to vote? And I oppose the extension for financial reasons. Just a six-month extension could cost us more than $45 million. And what kind of signal would this send to those legal immigrants now waiting in foreign countries for the opportunity to immigrate under existing law? The wrong one.

So, let us welcome these newcomers. After all, they will now be called Americans, just like you and me. They will pay taxes and they will enjoy the same freedoms that we enjoy. And I would urge these new Americans to apply for citizenship and to fully participate in our political process.

But it's also time for those more liberal-minded members of Congress to hold up their end of the bargain.

First, we must begin cracking down hard on those "freeloaders" who refuse to leave. We must find them and send them back across the borders from which they came. Second, we should penalize those employers who hire these illegal immigrants. And finally, we must beef up our border patrols to ensure that the flow of aliens trying to enter our country illegally is stopped.

We've shown we have a heart. Now it's time to show the rest of the world, especially our surrounding neighbors, that the United States will not be taken advantage of.

Q. How did the term "National Guard" first get used as a title for the U.S. military?
A. The 2nd Battalion, 11th New York Artillery adopted the title "National Guard" in honor of Lafayette's celebrated Garde Nationale de Paris. The name was adopted during Lafayette's visit to the U.S. in 1824-25.

STASH YOUR TRASH!

Marine Litter Is More Than An Eyesore

DID YOU KNOW?

- An endangered brown pelican was found close to death, hanging from discarded fishing line on a piling off Henderson Point in Pass Christian.
- In a 1987 Mississippi marine fishing tournament an amberjack was caught with a plastic grocery bag in its throat and stomach. During the same tournament a cobia with a plastic ring wedged around its body and behind its gills was a shocking sight.
- Hundreds of thousands of marine animals, including porpoises, whales, dolphins, seals, sea turtles, and birds, die every year from eating plastic garbage that they mistake for food, or because they become entangled in discarded plastic fishing nets, crab pots, fishing lines and six-pack yokes drifting in the sea.
- An estimated 14 billion pounds of litter, much of it plastic, is dumped at sea every year by commercial shipping and fishing vessels, offshore petroleum platforms, naval operations, and recreational boaters.
- Not only is litter a hazard to marine animal life and people, but it limits the attraction of coastal Mississippi for tourists—a real economic loss to the state.
- Plastic and metal debris in the ocean is far slower to decompose than other kinds of litter. It has been estimated, for example, that a six-pack yoke can last in the marine environment over 400 years and that a discarded aluminum can or tab takes from 100 to 500 years to disintegrate.
- Plastic debris and discarded fishing nets and line become entangled in boat propellers and are sucked into engine intakes, resulting in loss of time and costly repairs to commercial and recreational fishermen.

WHAT YOU CAN DO!

- Do not throw any trash overboard and be careful that nothing plastic falls into the water.
- Slow trash for disposal in port. Encourage your port to provide convenient refuse disposal facilities.
- Take as few plastic and metal products as possible on board vessels and to the beach. Use bulk containers for drinks to reduce the number of cans and bottles you carry.
- If there are no trash receptacles on the beach where you are picnicking, take utensils and other debris home for disposal. If possible, take aluminum drink cans to a recycling station.
- When fishing, do not discard any pieces of torn net, broken fishing line, or plastic bait bags in the water. Dispose of worn out fishing gear onshore.
- Never throw anything out of a car. Besides being unsightly, litter on inland roads can make its way to the ocean and beaches via winds, streams, and rivers.
- Share your concern with friends, fellow mariners and family.
- Oceans can no longer be considered the dumping ground for the world.

IT'S JUST AS EASY TO BAG IT!

Governor's Weekly Column

Gov. Ray Mabus

Some new statistics came out this week that make it clearer than ever why we must streamline state government in Mississippi.

To put it bluntly, the gap between the earning power of Mississippians and the rest of the nation is widening. That is a major finding of a preliminary study commissioned by our recently created State Government Reorganization Committee.

The report found that our economic development programs are simply not working. It said that state government must take a greater leadership role in economic development. And, very importantly, the study stressed that every state program must be as efficient as possible.

The report makes two other alarming points: Mississippi is not claiming for its citizens a fair share of the nation's economic growth, and a failure to change could relegate Mississippi to the bottom of the economic ladder for much of the 21st Century, the study concluded.

Why is this so? One overriding problem is that our state government is highly fragmented. It is run by nearly 140 independent agencies.

Only a few agencies are governed by elected officials while the vast majority are controlled by non-elected members of about 100 boards and commissions.

There is a lack of coordination and too much duplication and inefficiency.

One of the most staggering statistics in the report involves state government employment. In addition to looking at Mississippi, the study considered Arizona, California, Georgia, Indiana, Maine, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

From 1980-1985, the number of state and local government employees dropped in every one of those states except Mississippi.

In Mississippi, the number of government employees rose by nearly 5 percent.

Mississippi had 154 state employees for 10,000 population in 1985 compared to 89 in California. There is no reason to believe that trend has changed significantly.

Tax dollars are being wasted in a state that can afford it least.

The study suggests that improved efficiency of government operations can be an important source of additional funds for economic growth programs.

That is why we need to streamline state government.

When the reorganization committee completes its work, I will come back to the legislature with recommendations on how we can reduce the size of state government to no more than 15 agencies.

You deserve a more efficient, effective state government, and I will work diligently to help that come to pass.

Heart Answers

WHAT ARE HEART MURMURS?

Heart murmurs are extra heart sounds produced by the circulation of the blood through the valves and chambers of the heart. There are different kinds of murmurs. A doctor can recognize them and determine whether a murmur is harmless or indicates a heart condition requiring medical care. Innocent, or functional, murmurs are common in children. A large percentage are likely to have had one at some time. Contact your local American Heart Association for more information.

Cemetery cleanup commended

May 11, 1988
Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,

A very special commendation to Supervisor Ronald Cuevas is in order for work done on the road that leads from Hwy. 607 near NASA into the Napoleon Cemetery.

Attention to this road was long past due.

My beloved mother, father and two brothers lie at rest in this Napoleon Cemetery. They were all very special people to our family.

The upkeep of this road really means a lot to us since we go very often to visit and clean their graves.

No longer is there a question as to whose Beat this is or if NASA is responsible for the upkeep of this road. No longer is it necessary to come to a halt when you approach an oncoming vehicle and for one or the other driver to get out and hold back a tree limb for the other to pass.

This has all been cleared and removed from each side of the road. No longer does one have to zigzag from one side of the road to the other side in order to avoid a hole big enough for an auto to fall into after a rain and pull off an exhaust and tail pipe.

The fact that this happened to me is not hearsay.

These holes have all been repaired.

I personally feel that I can speak for many others who have friends and loved ones in this cemetery.

We are all grateful to Mr. Cuevas for a job well done.

Oh, what a big improvement. We now have the satisfaction of knowing a loved one will not be rolled around or turned over in their casket when they take their final ride to their resting place.

Sincerely,
Eunice Lee Bermond

A realistic look at minimum wage increase

Summertime is around the corner and teenagers are probably already on the trail of summer jobs.

Meanwhile, the Congress is considering a dramatic increase in federal minimum wage, the issue probably to be settled about the time the national party conventions take place this summer.

Opponents of the proposed wage increase, from the present $3.35 per hour to as much as $4.65 per hour, fear the impact of the increase on the teenager job problem.

Jobs for teenagers are scarce how; they may be even more scarce with a minimum wage increase.

Simply put, the Congress may be pricing jobs out of the reach of unskilled and inexperienced teenagers.

A solution has been suggested; that is, include a differential for teenagers and part-time employment in the bill. Thus far, few seem willing to accept that solution.

Mississippi's Congressmen, obviously interested in doing something for the state's teenagers, will want to consider the actual impact of the proposed minimum wage increase before they vote.

Area cleanup set for Saturday

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Hancock County residents will join in a tri-county Stash Your Trash cleanup of waterways and roadways on Saturday, May 14 with four places to register.

The Hancock, Harrison and Jackson County cleanup is being sponsored by the Bureau of Marine Resources, the Gulf Islands National Seashore, the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, and area chambers of commerce.

Ellis Cuevas, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce beautification chairman has been named cleanup coordinator for Hancock County's task force.

The cleanup in Hancock County is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Board of Supervisors and Extension Service.

Registration in Bay St. Louis and Waveland is being coordinated by the Extension Club's Homemakers and will begin at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday at Beach Boulevard at Ulman Avenue; and the American Legion Home, Coleman Avenue, Waveland.

Registrations for the Cler-mont Harbor-Lakeshore areas will be at the Methodist Church in Clermont Harbor, Ina Cramer, chairman, and at Pearlington's Community Center, Hwy. 604, Rev. A. R. Farley, chairman.

John Scafide, chairman of the Hancock County Beach Advisory Committee, stated, "The Beach Advisory Committee wholeheartedly supports and endorses the cleanup project for the tri-county area being sponsored by the Bureau of Marine Resources, Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, Gulf Islands National Seashore, the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium and chamber of commerce."

The committee feels the cleanup in Hancock County ties in with the master plans shore protection and utilization," Scafide added.

Bill Johnson, Hancock County superintendent, will place a county truck at the Community Center in Pearlington and one at Gulfview School, Lakeshore for debris collections in those areas.

Litter collected along Beach Boulevard from Bayou Cadot to the mouth of the Jourdan River can be placed in bags on the water side of the road.

Gulf Coast Waste will collect the bags of trash on Beach Boulevard on Saturday afternoon, Paul Montjoy said.

Ray Kidd is in charge of the refreshments and they will be served to workers beginning at 1 p.m. at Beach Boulevard and Coleman Avenue. Kidd plans on having refreshments and hotdogs.

Darlene Underwood, home economist, in charge of registration, said, when an individual or group registers, they will be given collections bags, assigned collection area and a ticket for refreshments.

Cuevas stated, "We will try and give everyone an area they would like to collect in. We do not want everyone collecting in the same area. This is a community project and it is hoped there will be a large turnout of concerned citizens."

The county will also furnish a truck and two workers on Saturday to help with hauling the debris to the dump.

Jerry Heitzmann is in charge of mapping the areas. Libby Milner, chamber executive director, said Wednesday, "The chamber has received several telephone calls from citizens inquiring when the next beach cleanup would take place. It is hoped they will participate on Saturday."

The cleanup is for families, members of civic organizations, boy and girl scouts, veterans organizations, individuals and anyone else, Cuevas said.

The sponsors of the Stash Your Trash cleanup offer the following safety tips:

- Do not go near any large drums.
- Be careful with sharp objects.
- Wear gloves.
- Watch out for snakes.
- Don't lift anything too heavy.

Law enforcement agencies are to provide additional patrolling during the cleanup.

The task force will meet at noon Friday at the chamber's office to finalize plans for Saturday's cleanup.

Port commission discusses sewage

BY D. C. HARVILL
The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission this week discussed the sewerage system for the new Hancock County High School to be built at Stennis Industrial Airpark.

The commission consulted attorney Robert Genin and engineer Carlos Cordon about contingencies involved in tying the new school into the park's existing wastewater treatment plant.

According to Cordon, the plant has a 50,000 gallon per day capacity, but currently utilizes only 10,000 gallons per day.

The school has a projected flow rate of 21,000 to 36,000 gallons per day. So the existing plant will be able to handle the school's initial flow immediately.

Since the school's projected flow rate will bring the total flow into the plant to near its capacity future plant expansion may be necessary to facilitate full development at the airpark.

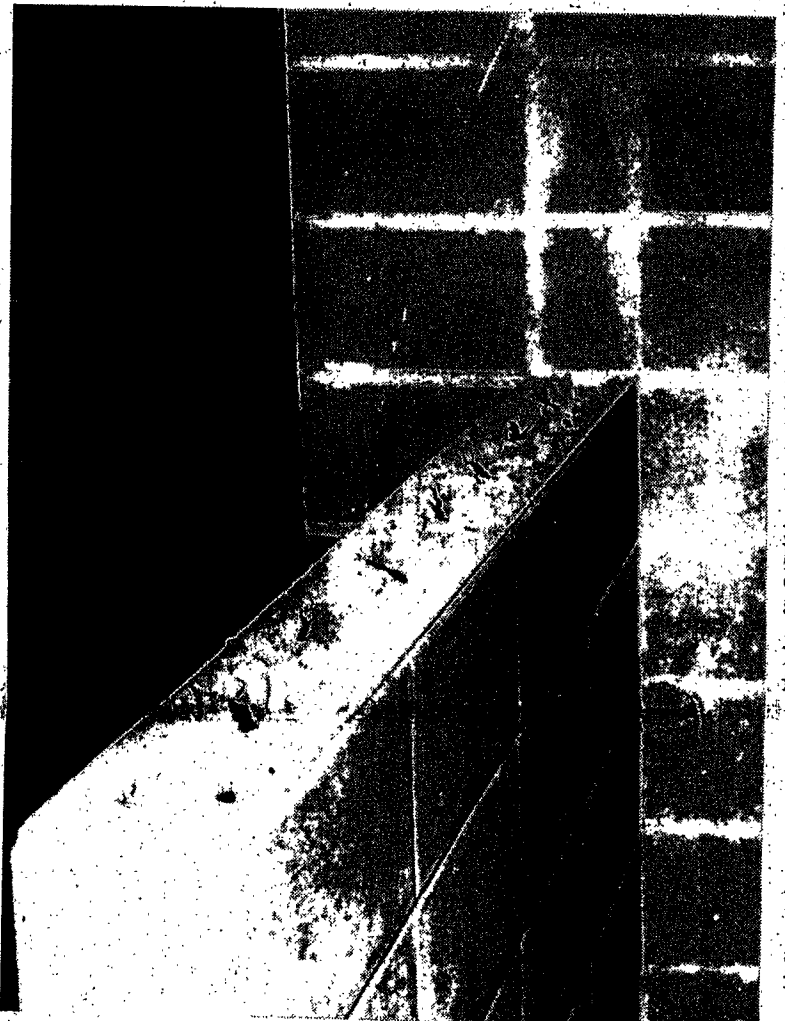

A principal advantage of tying into an existing system, according to Cordon, is that cost will be much cheaper than construction of a new system. In addition, the chances of the school board obtaining a discharge permit is unlikely at this time, he added.

Initial cost to the school board will be $76,000, representing its share of the plant's present construction value based on the school's projected flow rate.

An additional cost of $27,000 will accrue to the school board if a pumping station is needed for the school to connect to the system.

In other business the commission approved its docket of claims, and authorized payment of $6,654, the quarterly interest, on the original loan used to construct the industrial park.

A PARTITION WALL in a Hancock County Jail cell stands a few bricks shorter after the first two rows of concrete blocks fell off a six-foot section Tuesday night. Jail Warden Jim Odom said he was "95 percent sure" that vibrations from a passing train caused the already loose bricks to fall. (Echo staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

The partition involved in the Tuesday night accident is located in a cell shared by several male prisoners and separates a toilet area from the main cell. The blocks were reported loose about two weeks ago, Odom added.

Odom said he had contacted Roy Anderson, the contractor who constructed the building in 1986, and was still waiting for him to send a brickmason to do the repairs when the collapse occurred.

Because the partition is part of the contractor's responsibility, the county is not liable for the cost of the repair, he added.

LAWMEN'S MEMORIAL PROCLAMATION—Bay St. Louis police chief Ray Murphy and Deputy Albert Biehl III of Hancock County Sheriff's Department watch as Bay Mayor Victor Franciewicz signs a proclamation recognizing Sunday, May 15 as Peace Officer's Memorial Day. The Hancock County Lawmen's Association, according to association president Biehl, is sponsoring a memorial tribute to slain State Trooper David Bruce Ladner to be held at 7 a.m. at Hancock County Courthouse. (Echo staff photo by D. C. Harvill)

FAST TRAINS AND HURRICANES—Civil Defense director Robert Boudin and local Red Cross director Jeanne Garcia inspect a new first aid kit to be used in local shelters. According to Garcia, the Red Cross has many volunteers, especially in the county, to man shelters during disasters. The local Red Cross offers a variety of services including CPR and water safety courses. Pamphlets covering numerous health and safety topics are available at the Red Cross office behind the Hancock County Courthouse. Garcia said both she and Boudin are available to speak to groups. Anyone interested in becoming a volunteer, or needing information is urged to contact Garcia Monday, Wednesday, and Friday between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. at 467-7609. (Echo staff photo by D. C. Harvill)

Weekly State Crop Report

Mississippi farmers may make more money on wheat this year because of better prices and yields.

Wheat prices are 25 cents higher than they were a year ago, and U.S. exports are up this year by 600 million bushels because of expected yield increases and demand.

More exports, higher demand and lower stocks of stored wheat have boosted wheat prices, and state wheat farmers stand to profit from the actions in the market.

"We've got a large wheat crop in Mississippi this year," said Dr. Bob Williams, economist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "With the kind of prices we should get on the 1988 crop and the yields we could have, profits will be substantially higher than a year ago."

July futures wheat prices are now between $3.05 and $3.10 a bushel. Last year's prices averaged $2.80 a bushel. Wheat exports are expected to total 1.6 billion bushels.

State farmers planted 550,000 acres of wheat this year, a 38 percent increase over the 400,000 acres they planted in 1987. Good prices last fall encouraged farmers to plant more wheat.

Wheat prices peak in November and drop in June.

"Most of our agronomists and county agents report that our wheat crop is looking good," Williams said. "We could average anywhere between 34 and 36 bushels an acre or higher."

State farmers averaged 36 bushels an acre last year. Marketing analysts have recommended farmers price 25 percent of their wheat crop and store the rest until prices rise again in the fall.

"Those farmers who don't panic to store may want to sell their crop now, because prices will begin to drop within the next few weeks as we head into June," Williams said.

FAWLEY TOWERS

Basil Fawley and his madcap mix of misfits return to Mississippi ETV. They will be welcoming guests to their somewhat select Devonshire resort, Fawley Towers, each week on ETV beginning at 8 p.m., Thursday, May 12.

"Monty Python" alumnus John Cleege starts as the incompetent and rude proprietor, Basil Fawley, who manages to wreak havoc and insult guests with alarming regularity. His efficient wife Sybil, portrayed by Prunella Scales, manages, however, to soothe affronted guests and calm the abused staff's feelings.

HIROSHIMA MAIDEN

In 1955 a young Japanese girl comes to stay with an American family to undergo reconstructive surgery. Her visit disrupts their lives. Yet, the bombing of Hiroshima scarred hers. She is a "Hiroshima Maiden."

This "Wonderworks" presentation, which was inspired by a true incident, at 7 p.m., Saturday, May 14, on Mississippi ETV, follows Miyeko as she attempts to repair the scars she suffers as well as healing the wound that the family's son has—that all Japanese are not to be trusted.

Susan Blakely and Richard Masur star as the parents. Tamlyn Tomita portrays Miyeko.

Rocks in do-or-die clash today

The St. Stanislaus Rock-chaw Varsity Baseball Team will host the Petal Panthers today at 3:45 p.m. in the second game of a Division 4A State Baseball best-two-of-three playoff series.

Petal won the first game Tuesday night 3-1 at Petal. The Rocks scored one run on five hits, while Petal's three runs were all unearned.

If SSC wins today, a third and deciding game will be played Saturday at 3 p.m. at Pearl River Junior College in Poplarville.

St. Stanislaus finished the division in second place with a 7-3 worksheet by virtue of their come-from-behind 4-3 victory over St. Martin last Friday at SSC.

This is the first time a St. Stanislaus baseball team has advanced to post-season play in the state playoffs.

The Rocks earned the runner-up spot in the St. Martin victory by scoring two runs in the bottom of the sixth and bottom of the seventh innings.

Leading hitters for the Rocks were Rocky Rhodes, with two hits, followed by Scott Heitzmann, Cedric Smith, William Scarborough, Lloyd Nicaud, Bert Dean, and Shane Sigworth who all had one hit.

Winning pitcher was Cedric Smith, who improved his record to 9-3.

In the Petal contest, the Rocks appeared nervous in the early innings, allowing one run in the first and two more in the bottom of the second inning. Both SSC and Petal each collected five hits in the contest.

Yasin Shabazz led the attack with a double and a single. Winning pitcher was B. Daughtrey, while Cedric Smith was tagged with the loss.

Probable starting pitcher for the Rocks will be Bert Dean, with Loyd Nicaud expected to come in relief if needed. With the win Tuesday, Petal improved their record to 19-4, while the Rocks fell to 10-9.

"I feel that our season is far from over," said coach Mike Gemelli, "but we need to prove that by solid performance Thursday afternoon. Once we settled down Tuesday, we played good baseball. You can't afford to spot a good team like Petal three runs then expect to come back and win every time."

Saints kickers to tour

New Orleans Saints kickers Morten Andersen and Brian Hansen will travel throughout Mississippi May 31 through June 3 to teach the art of kicking to young men and women.

Sponsored by Bar's Root Beer and Archie Manning Sports, the Kicking Karavan will journey through Louisiana, Mississippi and Florida staging three-hour kicking clinics at local high schools with personal instructions by these Saints all-stars.

The event is scheduled in Gulfport from 9 a.m. to noon Tuesday, May 31 at Gulfport High School, 100 Perry St.

Morten Andersen is the all-time leading kicker of the NFL, boasting a completion rate of about 80 percent. He has appeared in the Pro Bowl for each of the last three years. He has made every all-pro team imaginable.

Brian Hansen, one of the league's most consistent punters, holds a 43-yard average through his three-year career. In fact, he made the Pro Bowl in his rookie season.

Together, they're known as football's "dynamic kicking duo." The two kickers will teach the fundamentals of both soccer and football kicking as well as pass along tips they've picked up through the years to Kicking Karavan participants.

A clinic registration fee of $40 covers personalized instruction, T-shirt and autographed pictures of Andersen and Hansen.

Boys and girls ages 9-17 may register at the event or guarantee a spot by registering in advance by sending a check for $40 to Archie Manning Sports, 543 Exposition Blvd., New Orleans, LA 70118.

For more information call (504) 895-5868.

Other stops on the tour in late May and early June include Lafayette, La., Monday, May 30; Hattiesburg, Tuesday, May 31; Laurel, Wednesday, June 1; Meridian, Thursday, June 2; Starkville, Thursday, June 2; Greenwood, Friday, June 3; and Pensacola, Fla., Saturday, June 4.

For further information, call the Department of Recreation and Intramural Sports at 286-6357 or the UNO tennis courts at 286-6353.

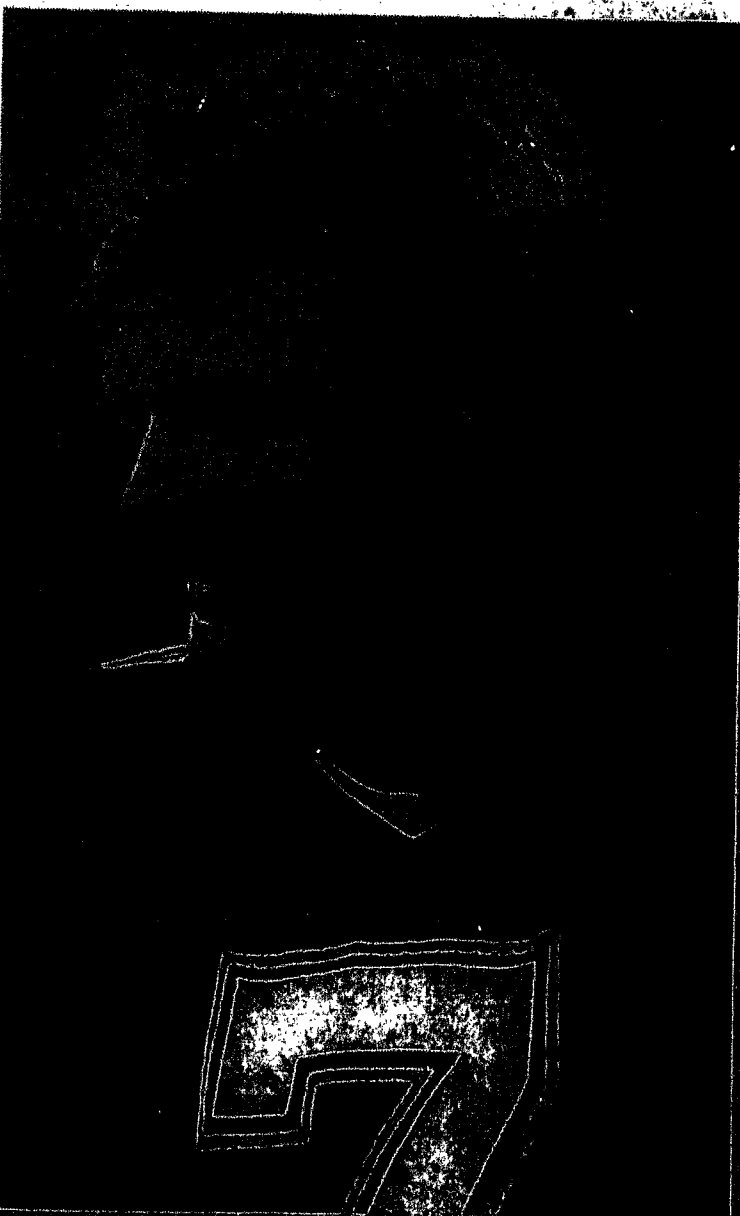

NEW ORLEANS SAINTS all-star punter Brian Hansen will be an instructor in the Bar's Kicking Karavan. Hansen holds a 43-yard average through his three-year career.

NUMBER ONE SEED—Named the No. 1 tennis player in the United States in the 1988 16-and-under amateur rankings of the U.S. Tennis Association is Meridith McGrath, 16, of Midland, Mich., granddaughter of Mrs. Mary McGrath of the House in Washington and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McGrath of Midland, Mich.

18-and-under doubles, No. 16 in 18-and-under singles and holds three national championships—will compete in the Junior Wimbledon Tournament to be played over six weeks in June on grass courts in Great Britain. A junior at Dow High in Midland, she is the nation's most sought-after high school player for the 1989 college tennis season. McGrath is featured in the current issue of World Tennis in connection with recent competition against a Russian team in a Continental Players Cup event at Coral Springs, Fla. She teamed with Kim Po of Rolling Hills, Calif. recently to win the U.S. Open Girls Doubles 6-4, 7-5 against Il-Soon Kim of South Korea and Shi Ting Wang of Taiwan, Republic of China. McGrath is Class A Michigan High Schools state singles champion and holds the National Hardcourt Championship singles title taken in a 6-4, 6-3 win over Po at San Jose, Calif. in June. She emerged as the over-all singles champion and 16-and-under girls doubles champion against top players from Australia and West Germany in a recent McDonald's Challenge Cup Tour of Melbourne, Adelaide, Brisbane and Sydney.

ALL-STAR KICKER Morten Andersen of the New Orleans Saints will be an instructor in the Bar's Kicking Karavan. He is the all-time leading kicker in NFL history, boasting an efficiency of about 80 percent.

Whoppers take Waveland Little League Opener

Waveland Little League's Whoppers baseball team won its opening game over Tommy's Dirt Fighters 4-1. Coach Leo Laurent said the team did very well in the game, hitting and hitting.

Came balls were given to Darren Carter for pitcher, Donna Carter and Danny Patton for overall play.

Home runs were hit by Carter, Patton and Tommy Kingston.

Coach Leo Laurent played a good game and hit a triple.

I would like to congratulate the whole team for a game well played. Coach Laurent said.

Lady Eagles sign six-foot forward

HATTIESBURG—University of Southern Mississippi Lady Eagle basketball players have reached an agreement with head coach Kay James to sign a six-foot forward. Starlin Montgomery of Jackson, Cal., was named.

Montgomery averaged 24.0 points, 7.0 rebounds and 4.0 assists per game as a senior. She was named the Jackson Metro player of the year and named to the all-capital Big 8 and all-district teams. She will also play in the high school all-star game in the summer.

Montgomery is the second choice of the signing for the Lady Eagle basketball team.

During the early signing period in November, James offered four outstanding players including Mississippi player of the year Alex Hall and Alex Bunch, player of the year Joanne Slater, both Hall and Slater. James' outstanding credentials to USM, the two other early signees are 6-1 forward Shelly Sanders of Kosciusko, Miss., and 6-0 forward Paula Nash of Gulfport, Miss.

James says the Lady Eagle could sign two more players.

Eagle tennis wrap up

HATTIESBURG—In this inaugural season as University of Southern Mississippi tennis coach, Teddy Victor led the Eagles to an impressive 18-6 regular season finish and a fifth place finish in the first completed Conference Championship, the best finish in the last four years.

"I thought the season went well," Victor said. "I think we played up to our capabilities. We made some good trades this year."

Several Eagles played well for Victor. Number one player Antonio Reas and number three singles player D. and Cayanza had good seasons. Reas finished with a 14-7 record and Cayanza finished with an impressive 17-3 record and a third place finish in the Metro tournament.

Antonio and Daniel were the most consistent players we had," Victor said. "Wayno Spicer, who also played well for us, finished with a 10-2 record."

In the women's tennis, Victor says he had an up and down year. Number one singles player Yvonne Wilson played well enough to earn all-conference and a USA team in tennis.

"Eventhough you are our most consistent player and Victor," we will be looking for better performance next season."

The USM women's tennis regular season was a 20-0 record and a fifth place finish in the Metro Conference tournament.

Mike Cromwell punches a backhand approach shot back over the net during his victory over St. John. Cromwell has had a variety of A Boys Doubles partners during the season. SSC Coach Myron Labat selected Mark Distefano to be his partner for the district tournament.

Mark Distefano gets down to return a low ball at Pascagoula. Playing B Boys Singles at Pascagoula, he won his match although the team lost. He qualified playing doubles with Mike Cromwell to go to the AAAA State Tournament in Jackson.

Bay High School A Boys Doubles players, Greg Ladner and Shane Kowalski were the stiffest competition for the OLA/SSC players.

Words of Wisdom

Nothing can come out of an artist that is not in him to begin with.

Thought makes for physical growth and nourishment. Thoughts become what you do. Thoughts become who you are. Thoughts become your life.

You will never "find" time for anything. If you want time, you must take it.

DAPHNE NECAISE signs on with Pearl River Junior College Girl's Basketball while Lady Wildcat's coach Polly Kirkland looks on. During her senior year Daphne was voted most valuable player, best offensive and player of the year. "One of our priorities this year is to replace point player Norma Pendarvis, whom we lost to graduation," Kirkland said. "Since she is one of the best point players in the conference, we feel Daphne will be in contention for that position. We are excited she is coming to PRC." (Echo staff photo by D. C. Harvill)

SPORTS FROM THE PRESSBOX

by Jim Fuller

In light of Darryl Strawberry's comments during spring training regarding his teammates, one has to wonder when the next Strawberry-bomb will go off. Although he likes to ruffle some feathers, what he says isn't always what he means or feels. Last year in spring training he vowed not to pay $1,500 in fines levied against him by manager Davey Johnson for lateness and other infractions.

He paid.
He decided he wouldn't play in a mid-season exhibition game against the Mets' triple-A Tidewater affiliate.

He played.
Last July, he resolved he wouldn't speak with certain teammates after they had questioned his resolve.

He spoke.
He promised to punch Wally Backman — "that little redneck" — in the face.

He later shook Backman's hand.
Potential, Strawberry has worn that word like a scarlet letter for years. It was there for all the bird dogs and scouts to see. Right there on his sleeve, his cap and his glove, as if it were George Halas' initials on a Chicago Bears uniform. And, when his powerful swing made the image of his bat blur, the word became all the more visible, as if written in neon: POTENTIAL.

When baseball people spoke about him, the word was never more than one sentence away. The raw Straw had so much of it, the word's nine letters weren't really enough. As a rookie in 1983, Darryl pluralized it and spoke of "my potentials."

I think 1988 will be the year that the albatross will be lifted from his neck, and the hated word purged from everyone's vocabulary. To Met fans and knowledgeable baseball people, he is a young superstar, but to many he is just a pain in the grass.

James A. "Jimmy" Hunter came to the majors with a smoking fastball, pinpoint control, the nickname "Catfish" (begun by the legendary promoter-owner, Charles O. Finley) and a rock-solid set of values learned growing up in rural Hertford, North Carolina.

For fifteen years, from Caracas to Kansas City, Oakland to New York, he was one of the premier fastball pitchers in the big leagues. Now, for the first time, Jimmy Hunter, in his book Catfish, tells the inside story of his years as the "stopper" for two championship teams.

The first was the Oakland A's. The roster featured colorful, prodigiously talented players such as "Blue Moon" Odom, Sal Bando, Rolie Fingers, Rene Lacheman and Reggie Jackson.

Catfish went from the A's to the Yankees in the first major free agent auction, scooped up immediately by George Steinbrenner, who won two World Series with "Cat" as his ace, despite constant turmoil within the team. (I know what you're thinking: Different year, same Steinbrenner.)

Hunter's Yankee teammates included his close friend (and, if you care, my personal favorite), the gruff and enormously gifted Thurman Munson, Lou Pinella (current Yankee General Manager), Mickey Rivers, Sparky Lyle and, once again, Reggie Jackson.

When all was said and done, Catfish played for two charismatic owners and was supported by a strong cast of players while enroute to 224 victories, a Cy Young Award, a perfect game and participation on five World Series championship teams.

Bower named assistant coach

HATTIESBURG — University of Southern Mississippi football coach Curley Hallman has named his current offensive coordinator, Jeff Bower, assistant head coach of the Golden Eagles.

"This is something that I discussed with Jeff when we were in the hiring process, and it is a move that will be beneficial to me and to the overall program," said Hallman.

"Jeff serves as our offensive coordinator, and coaches our quarterbacks, and has done an outstanding job of getting our offense put in this spring," he added.

Bower's association with USM has been a long one. Grant named Governor's Scholar Coast Episcopal High School has announced the selection of Arthur Gordon "Chip" Grant III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grant of Pass Christian, as Governor's Scholar for the 1988 session of the Mississippi Governor's School.

CHIP GRANT

He is a member of the National Honor Society and the Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

In sports, Grant has lettered in football, basketball, soccer, tennis, softball and track. Grant attends St. Thomas Episcopal Church and is a member of the Episcopal Young Churchmen.

The Governor's School is a residential honors program established in 1981 on the campus of the Mississippi University for Women.

The school is designed to provide academic, creative, and leadership experiences for a limited number of rising high school juniors or seniors who have demonstrated exceptional ability and achievement in their studies and who show high intellectual and creative potential.

Eligible students must be nominated by their high school principal. Once nominated, all candidates are carefully screened by a panel of distinguished educators, and selections are based on the panel's recommendations.

Bank plans educational program

Eastover Bank For Savings will be offering to help over 128 high school students learn personal economic skills with 'How to Do Your Banking,' a two-week public service education program that will begin this fall in area high schools.

A program developed by United States Banker, a leading publication in the financial industry, the program has been in use throughout the country since 1941. Through the program, more than five million high school students in 44 states have learned financial management skills.

Currently the course is being taught in 29 states, reaching more than 350,000 students in 2,094 schools this year alone.

Designed as a curriculum enhancement, the ten-part course is taught in the classroom by local high school faculty. The proven program teaches students practical ways to budget, save, and borrow money through the use of simulation games that allow pupils to role-play real-world financial experiences.

"Eastover Bank is pleased to be able to bring this leading national educational opportunity to Mississippi high school students. It's part of our ongoing commitment to education, the key to our state's future growth," Eastover Bank President Robert D. Bowling said.

Teenaged student search underway

The Pearl Christian School District, in cooperation with the Long Beach School System, has the process of locating 14- and 15-year-old handicapped students to participate in the Vocational Preparation Lab located in the Long Beach School System.

This is mandated by the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Act.

Anyone interested in participating in the program should contact JoAnn Brawner, Pass Christian program developer.

Mississippians favor higher teacher pay, poll shows

HATTIESBURG—Mississippi voters favor raising teacher salaries, but that support fades when more pay is tied to higher taxes, according to a statewide business survey conducted by the University of Southern Mississippi.

In the First Quarter 1988 Public Policy Poll conducted by the Center for Business Development and Research at USM, 62.5 percent of 406 households surveyed favored raising teachers' salaries. Only 4 percent "didn't know," and 13.5 percent were opposed.

According to the poll, Mississippians favored higher teacher salaries regardless of congressional districts, racial lines, gender, age and income levels.

But when the respondents were asked if they supported higher teacher salaries if it meant higher taxes, 53.4 percent said yes, 39.2 percent said no, and 7.4 were undecided.

Male voters tended to be more in favor of higher taxes for teacher salaries than female voters. Higher income voters tended to favor additional taxes for salary increases than lower income voters, but overall support for higher teacher salaries did not vary by congressional district, race or age.

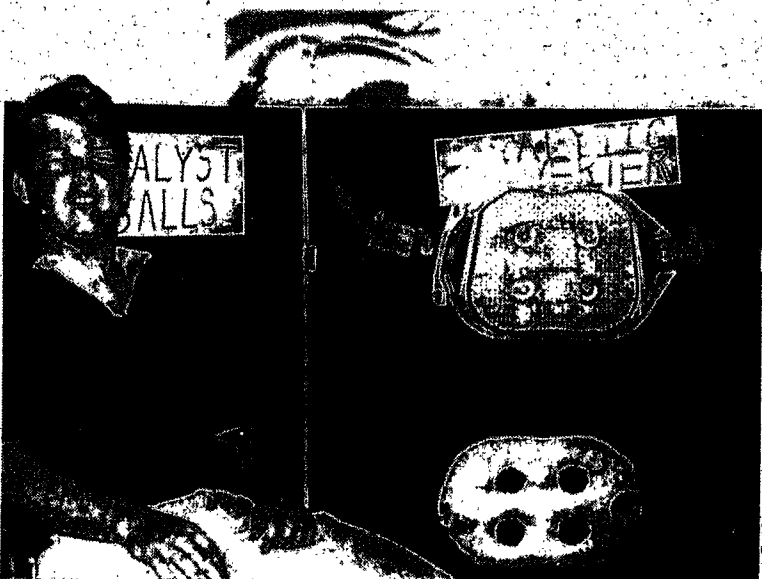

The USM telephone poll also asked a number of other questions that are of interest to many Mississippians. Additional results include:

►Mississippians favor constitutional reform—62.8 percent to 14.8 percent, with 22.4 percent "don't know" votes.

►A majority of state voters (52) percent oppose the operation of the Europa Star gambling ship.

For more information about the survey, contact CBDR Director Dr. Eric Reidenbach, Box 5094 Southern Station, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39406-5094, or call (601) 266-4653.

Would You Believe...

Other than its incredible beauty, the rose has been a symbol of secrecy. In 16th-century England, a rose was worn behind the ear by servants, and other workers, to indicate that they had heard all, and told nothing. The expression "sub rosa" literally means "under the rose," or better known today as "secretly." The word "rosary" comes from the Latin rosarium, meaning a rose garden. And, of course, we all know the word rose is an anagram of "eros."

Throughout the Middle Ages, spices were too costly for the average person. Some spices were even worth as much as gold or silver, and were often included in wills, or given as part of a marriage dowry.

SOAP BUBBLES

The Girl Next Door: Ellen Wheeler plays the demanding role of Cindy. All My Children's AIDS sufferer. The storyline has been a real eye-opener for the Mormon-raised Wheeler. She receives many letters from people with AIDS, as well as from viewers who admit their ignorance and fear of the disease. "I was prepared to have negative responses to the storyline, but we haven't had any that I know of," she reveals. "That says an awful lot for society."

The positive feedback extends to Ellen's family, most of whom still live in her hometown. She's gratified to be educating her younger siblings about AIDS, and was very moved when her mother supported her decision to take the role, pointing out that even their town had AIDS victims.

Ellen knew she was going into a closed-end situation; at that time in her life, it was the right thing to do. She had taken a year off, following a lengthy tenure as twins Marley and Victoria on Another World (roles which won her an Emmy Award), and was in the throes of a divorce from Tom Eplin, whom she met when he played Jake on AW. "It is important for me to be able to see there's going to be a beginning, a middle, and an end. I didn't feel I was being overwhelmed coming back to work."

It seems likely that Ellen's part on AMC will end sometime in June, but she's not worried about the future. "I've been very lucky in my career," she says. "A lot of things just happen to me before I get a chance to open my mouth. I won't say that after this I want to win 12 Academy Awards. I'll just wait and see."

Although her personal life hasn't always been as charmed as her career, Ellen persists in showing that optimistic nature which makes her the most unlikely of New York residents. "I'm a very miserable little lady," she says, "but I have a positive outlook, but it's really hard for me to have negative feelings most of the time."

Would You Believe...

Other than its incredible beauty, the rose has been a symbol of secrecy. In 16th-century England, a rose was worn behind the ear by servants, and other workers, to indicate that they had heard all, and said nothing. The expression "sub rosa" literally means "under the rose," or better known today as "secretly." The word "rosary" comes from the Latin rosarium, meaning a rose garden. And, of course, we all know the word rose is an anagram of "eros."

Throughout the Middle Ages, spices were too costly for the average person. Some spices were worth as much as gold or silver, and were often included in dowries, or given as part of a marriage dowry.

Texaco chartered vessel equipped by Genesis

The Genesis System has been installed on the M/V Gulf Fleet 55, a 192 foot offshore supply boat owned and operated by Zapata-Gulf of Harvey, La. The boat is contracted to Texaco Oil and operating from Fourchon, La.

"With this installation, Zapata-Gulf and Texaco join the ranks of the industry leaders now utilizing this innovative system on their vessels," according to Walter Todd, president of Genesis System, Inc.

The Genesis System solves three major problems for Zapata-Gulf and Texaco—a reduction in fuel burned during operation of the boat; inventory control for fuel loaded or transferred from the boat; and simple, easy-to-use reports for shore management to use in maximizing vessel utilization through an electronic log.

With the electronic log, Texaco's transportation manager takes an active role in managing the vessel and increasing productivity.

With information generated by the Genesis System, the boat can, in its everyday servicing of oil rigs, set its throttles to maintain the best fuel efficiency, yet still meet the needs of the rigs and platforms which it services.

For fuel inventory control, the Genesis System keeps track of fuel with a continuous read-out on all fuel loaded, fuel transferred to the rigs, and any fuel transferred to the day tank. The positions of fuel transfer valves are read by means of electronic sensors on the fuel transfer piping system, allowing the system to record all fuel activity on the boat.

In addition, the system is built to handle inventory control for dry bulk drilling and mud aboard vessel.

To assist in the processing of the daily logs from the boats, a printer is attached to the Genesis System, generating a report to include the amount of fuel transferred or loaded, the date, time, as well as the latitude and longitude of the vessel at the time of the transaction.

At the end of every 24-hour period, a summary report is printed to give the amount of fuel used by the main engines, auxiliary engines and further management information on the average fuel burns related to the vessel's running time. This printer is then attached to the daily log sent to the Texaco office.

In addition to the printer, all data aboard the vessel is recorded and data tapes are sent to Genesis headquarters for processing on software developed especially by Genesis for this boat. The reports generated give shoreside management data with which to analyze the vessel's performance in conjunction with fuel consumption and fuel inventory accounting.

These reports also provide information on fuel used subject to state taxes, which is now accepted by the State of Louisiana as proof for audit purposes.

Genesis System, Inc. is the leader in the field of information management with a system that can withstand the tough marine environment and still perform reliably.

The company is presently in operation throughout the Gulf of Mexico, the East Coast, the West Coast, the Caribbean and deep sea.

It is widely used by major companies in the commercial marine industry, including Amoco, Conoco, Kerr-McGee, Tidewater Marine, Nicor Marine and others.

Genesis System is headquartered at 295 Highway 90, Suite 13, Bay St. Louis.

Special Ed Classes travel to Mississippi State

On Apr. 13-14, seven students in Karen Martin's Special Education Classes at Hancock North Central Elementary went on an overnight field trip to Mississippi State University.

The trip was the culminating activity in a unit on letter writing.

As part of their classroom assignments, students had been exchanging letters with youngsters in an afternoon tutoring program at MSU. The trip was planned as a way for students to meet their penpals and allow them to experience campus living.

The students enjoyed many activities during their stay on campus. They went bowling, toured the MSU Dairy Science Plant, and attended an MSU Southern baseball game.

The highlight of the students' stay on campus was a pizza party held with their penpals.

The trip was sponsored by the MSU chapter on the Council for Exceptional Children and by the faculty at the Child Service Demonstration Center.

Students participating in the trip were Marsha Cuevas, Terry Cuevas, Clark Hoda, Julie Hoda, Daniel Lyons, Anthony Rester, and Stacy Sanders. Chaperones were Miss Cindy Williams and Mrs. Harriet Sanders. They were also accompanied by their teacher, Ms. Karen Martin.

Thousands of white Mississippians were outraged, others muttered dismay but some were heartened in 1962 when Frank Smith objected to Governor Ross Barnett's refusal to admit James Meredith to the University of Mississippi.

Frank Ellis Smith was a congressman from Mississippi's Delta district from 1950 to 1962. Before that he served in Washington as a member of Senator John Stennis' staff and even earlier as a state senator. He wrote a long list of articles and books including a fine history of the Yazoo River area and a history of conservation efforts in the United States. As a TVA director, he worked for economic development and social progress.

Most Mississippians were shocked by his condemnation of segregation. In his autobiography, Congressman from Mississippi, published in 1964, he apologized for having given the impression that he supported segregation in order to gain and hold public office.

The state, then dedicated to maintaining segregation, refused to accept that he had long believed in integration and the equality of the races. The Mississippi Secretary of State called him a ghoul. In private letters, other called him far worse.

After all, they reasoned, he had grown up in Greenwood. His people had been Mississippians.

How, they wondered could he have acquired such ideas in the Delta during the 1930s? In Congressman he explained that he got his ideas by reading in the Greenwood public library.

Friends and critics found this difficult to comprehend.

But the record of Smith's intellectual journey out of the segregated society does exist. While he was fighting in Europe as a member of the Third Army, he wrote home to his fiancée, Helen McPaul, to "educate" her. He told her what he read and what influenced him. By reading those letters and key books which he said influenced him, it is possible to reconstruct his route.

Smith read constantly, not guided by a teacher or a friend, but by his own intellectual lust for enlightenment. He preferred history and biography but read widely in literature and in magazines such as the New Republic and the Nation.

The book that challenged him to question his society's teachings about race and segregation was Edwin Embree's Brown Americans. Embree wrote to contradict the myths which had been generated to support segregation.

For example, he pointed out that the slaves brought to America had been torn from advanced cultures with their own languages, religions, and customs. He depicted the strength and intelligence that black Americans demonstrated in adapting to the New World.

Embree provided heroes such as John Fee, the son of a Kentucky slaveowner, who refused to accept slavery and became an abolitionist. "He had been brought up amid slavery. His own father and most of the men to whom he looked with respect were slaveowners. It had been natural for him to accept the system but he was sensitive and conscientious—he made up his mind that holding in slavery of fellow human beings was contrary to the teachings of Jesus."

Questioning segregation in depression era Greenwood, Smith identified with Fee's lonely decision.

Then, Smith met James Weldon Johnson through the pages of his autobiography, Along This Way. Johnson wrote a witty, urbane account of his life as journalist, diplomat, poet, and civil rights worker. Johnson was Black, and the first Black man that Smith had the opportunity to know.

Despite the fact that Smith lived in a community with a black majority, he could not get to know a black man personally as he did Johnson. Johnson through his life and observations made nonsense of the stereotypes and the myths which supported segregation. He gave Smith insight into the black man's experiences with racism and made the insanity of it clear. Smith had to agree with Johnson's conclusion—integration was necessary and inevitable.

Having rejected the racism and segregation which were the foundation of his society, what was Smith to do about it? Should he revolt openly against his society? Did he have a responsibility to try to change it? If so, how was he to achieve this most difficult of revolutions?

Vincent Sheean's Personal History provided Smith with an approach. Sheean was a journalist who covered revolutions in Africa, China, Russian, and Palestine and found himself sympathizing with most of them. In China he fell in love with an American communist who was fighting for the revolution.

He followed her to Moscow and toyed with becoming a communist, himself but he could not. His friend died and he continued to wander until he had an imaginary conversation with her which helped him sort out his mission in life.

She said to him "...the immediate job is to get rid of the present arrangement, and contrive a more satisfactory one without these nation-race-religious tags to help the functioning of capital and empire." Sheean protested that he was not a revolutionary and never could be. She replied that he need not be.

"Your work, if you ever do any that amounts to a damn, will have to be some kind of writing, I suppose; I don't know much about that, but it might be a good idea to try to learn how to write... (and)...to see things as straight as you can and put them into words that don't falsify them. That's programme enough for one life, and if you can ever do it, you'll have acquired the relationship you want between the one life you've got and the many of which it's a part."

Smith adopted that point of view and made writing his goal in life. He wished to find kindred souls outside of Mississippi but he went to Sunflower Junior College in Moorhead, Mississippi, because that was the only college that could find him within an hour's drive. In his youth, Smith was editor of the college newspaper, Sunflower Petal, which was directed. He wrote and edited articles that were clompy with students who were not intelligent. He said "I was a majority of the students are violently prejudiced against members of other races. Do you talk with them or are better than anybody because the color of your skin is different from theirs? Can you be a Christian and practice in Christian racial discrimination? Do you believe in liberty and justice for all?" He found the faculty little better and said so. Clearly he found it difficult to understand why educated

Alcohol affects nutrient intake

By Linda S. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Reasons for saying 'no' to alcohol go beyond the dangers of drunk driving.

Nutritional deficiencies, with serious results caused by heavy drinking often go undetected until alcohol victims suffer serious physical damage.

Nelda Starks, nutritional educational specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said most drinkers do not consider the nutritional and physical damage caused by their drinking.

"Alcoholic beverages are high in calories, but low in nutrients," Starks said. "People who want to lose weight should limit their intake of alcoholic drinks to allow room for foods with needed nutrients."

Starks said chronic use of alcohol suppresses the appetite and thus interferes with the consumption of nutrients. Because alcohol also affects the absorption of nutrients, Starks said vitamin supplements will not effectively replenish nutrients if the person continues to drink heavily.

The specialist warns that drinking during pregnancy is especially dangerous. "Fetal alcohol syndrome" is the name given to a condition sometimes seen in infants of mothers who drank heavily during pregnancy.

"Low birth weight, reduced growth rate, birth defects and mental retardation could result from excessive alcohol consumption during pregnancy," Starks said.

Because the exact amount of alcoholic beverages a pregnant woman can drink without endangering the unborn child is not known, Starks recommends complete abstinence from alcohol.

She said alcohol is directly toxic to not only the digestive system, but also pancreas and liver. Alcohol's effects on the liver may make that organ unable to adequately store nutrients or activate enzyme systems necessary for nutrient metabolism. However, iron may be stored excessively in the liver, increasing liver damage.

"Moderation is really the key to preventing damage," Starks said. "Except in cases where the person is an alcoholic, if someone is going to drink an occasional alcoholic drink, it will probably not be detrimental to their health."

VA travel allowance reinstatement

WASHINGTON—Veterans who need financial assistance to travel to the nearest Veterans Administration medical facility may soon find relief. The House has voted for the third (and likely last) time to reinstate the travel allowance for certain veterans who have been denied the benefit due to VA-imposed restrictions that exclude most veterans from participating in the program.

The travel pay provision is part of an omnibus veterans' bill, the Veterans' Benefits and Services Act of 1988, that now goes to the Senate for final approval before enactment.

Under the legislation, the result of a tediously-crafted House/Senate compromise agreement, the following veterans will be eligible for travel pay:

(1) veterans who are scheduled for medical examinations to determine eligibility for compensation and pension benefits;

(2) veterans for treatment of a service-connected disability; (3) veterans with a service-connected disability rating of 30 percent or more for any treatment for which they are eligible; (4) veterans who draw VA pension benefits;

(5) veterans whose income does not exceed the maximum annual rate of a VA pension; (6) veterans who need ambulance, wheelchair van, or other medically-indicated modes of transportation; and

(7) veterans whom the VA determines to be unable to defray the expenses of travel.

Eligible veterans will be responsible for the first six dollars of the cost of round-trip travel to receive VA medical care. For those veterans whose medical conditions warrant frequent visits, there will be a monthly cap of $18 on their out-of-pocket expenses.

The legislation also establishes an entitlement to VA outpatient care for: (1) veterans for their service-connected disabilities; and (2) veterans rated 50 percent or greater for any disability. Under current law, outpatient care is provided on a discretionary basis.

Other provisions: improves benefits for former prisoners of war; pay incentives to recruit and retain nurses at VA medical facilities; increases specially-adapted housing and automobile assistance allowances for severely disabled veterans; increases the levels of VA per diem payments to state-run veterans' facilities; and authorizes a pilot program of community-based residential care for homeless chronically mentally ill veterans as well as $12 million in funding for the program.

the war still dedicated to change but desiring a more immediate role in making it happen.

He worked first as an editor of the Greenwood Morning Star where he was much more guarded in expressing his views. Then he went into politics thinking that he could contribute directly to making a better world.

Despite his efforts to moderate Mississippi politics, the state's dedication to segregation became more pronounced during the 1950s and 1960s.

When he was forced out of office in 1962, Smith simply returned to his long held ambition to write and change his society.

In his autobiography, he laid out his life for his readers as Johnson, Steffens, and Sheean had done for him. He closed with a chapter called "Look Away From Dixie."

In 1964 at the height of the civil rights movement, he wrote: "The success of the Negro revolution is...inevitable—it must prevail if the visions of 1776 and the American system of government are to survive."

That was what Smith had decided while reading in the Greenwood Public Library located deep in a segregated culture. Before leaving the Delta to fight fascism in Europe, he went far through his reading to a society of racial justice and equality. He came to believe that such ideas are powerful and that it helps the world to share them. He has spent his life believing and practicing that as well as he could.

Hancock County Lawmen's Association ceremonies to honor slain Highway Patrol trooper

Sunday, May 15 has been designated by the U.S. Congress as Peace Officer's Memorial Day throughout the United States.

In observance of this day, the Hancock County Lawmen's Association is sponsoring a memorial tribute to the late Trooper David Bruce Ladner of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol and all other Mississippi law enforcement officers who have lost their lives in the line of duty and to their families.

The ceremony will include a blessing for all living law enforcement officers who face the very real prospect of becoming a statistic on a daily basis, according to Deputy Albert Biehl III of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, association president.

The Memorial Service will be held at the Hancock County Courthouse on Main Street in Bay St. Louis at 7 a.m.

Ceremonies will include the lowering of the flag to half-staff by the Honor Guard of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department as 'Taps' is played, the invocation, guest speakers, and a closing rendition of the Policeman's Prayer.

Guest speakers will include District Attorney Glenn Cannon and several other local dignitaries.

The Law Enforcement Blessing will be conducted at the Grotto on the grounds of the St. Augustine Seminary in Bay St. Louis. The Grotto is located on US-90 between Seminary Drive and Second Street.

A procession of both police and private vehicles will depart the Hancock County Courthouse at the conclusion of the memorial service and proceed directly to the Seminary for the blessing of all living officers and their families. The public is invited to attend.

NEXT WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Weekly Tip: A change of attitude would be wise.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) An enormous amount of affection is being expected of you from loved ones. Only you can decide if a complete change of direction is necessary.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Some spectacular aspects through the remainder of the month bring opportunities. Capitalize on your creative abilities.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Your ideas are considered impractical by those who follow old guidelines; modernize your environment to get your point across. Go for the gold now!

Cancer (June 21-Jul. 20) If you are forced to discuss business matters, then ensure you do not allow for emotions. A new formula is necessary on the homefront, so get to work on it.

Leo (Jul. 21-Aug. 22) If you feel others are being inconsiderate or irresponsible, don't labor the point. Money matters will be trying now.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you are honest and brave enough to acknowledge certain faults, this can be a prosperous time for you. Personal interests figure heavily.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) New facts and information are pouring your way; grab them and use them for advancement. If a loved one has deceived you somehow, try to forgive.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) The special relationship between you and your mate is blossoming with the weather now. Face any awkward or emotional situation with dignity.

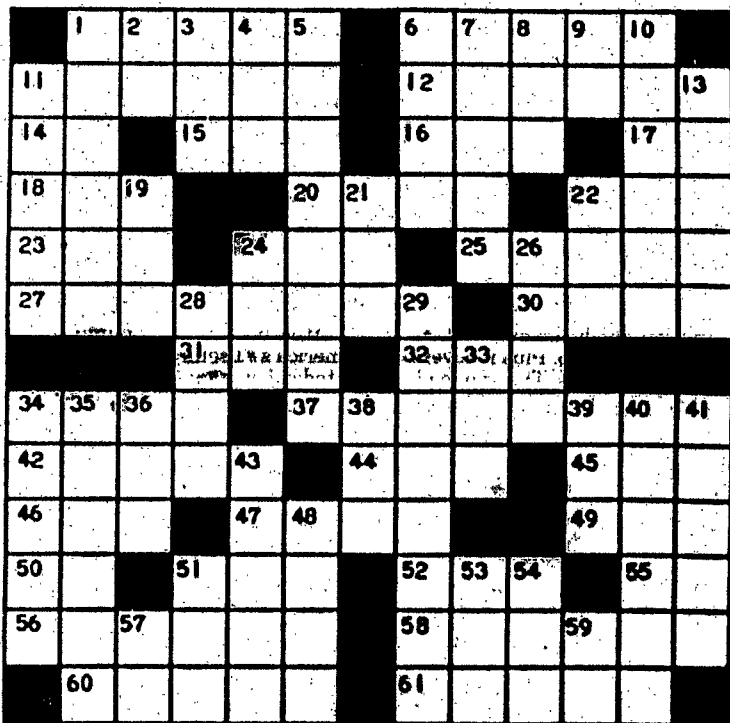

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) The Stars point toward a loss of confidence in both your personal and professional life. Rise above changes. Armed with knowledge, it's up to you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Some aspects may seem negative, but should leave you little time for self-doubt or pity. Associates are now likely to be staggered by your ability.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A gentle and forgiving soul can help get that sour taste out of your mouth. You're feeling insightful, so use this time to reflect on some goals.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Decisions have been waiting too long. Now is the time to get things done and off your desk. That recent longer streak in you will come to an end shortly.
